QUESTION II

Read the text and questions below.

For each question, 11 - 15, mark the correct letter A, B, C or D on the separate answer sheet.

Doug Allan, Wildlife Cameraman

I recently spent two years in the Arctic filming the series Blue Planet. I love being in an environment that hasn't changed for 20,000 years. Of course it's freezing, but it must be a healthy place because you never catch colds.

When I'm filming, I like to really feel how lonely the environment is. Filming underwater involves cutting through thick ice and diving in tied to a line. The person at the other end has to be ready to pull you out fast if necessary.

Originally I was a research diver for the British Antarctic Survey project, but for me science lacked excitement. I'd always enjoyed photography, and whenever camera teams passed through, they encouraged me to watch and learn. I was then able to move into filming in 1985 and have concentrated on Arctic and Antarctic wildlife ever since.

I prefer to be face to face with the animals I'm filming. I haven't got in the water with killer whales yet, but I plan to. Of course, it's dangerous if you choose the wrong moment. They're big animals and can move fast, so I'd be stupid to film them searching for food!

I've never had problems with polar bears, although once I was frightened when one tried to get into my tent. Polar bears are bold, clever and dangerous. But I made this one see I wasn't about to attack it - I'm sure it realised I wouldn't hurt it.

When I come back home from my trips, I work in the mornings and spend the afternoons swimming to keep fit. Now I'm fifty, filming is harder. The challenge for me is to continue to deliver high-quality work.

11. In this text, Doug Allan is describing

- A. the challenges of the environment he works in.
- B. the career opportunities in TV camera work.
- C. the difficulties of having to work alone.
- D. the beautiful scenery of the Arctic.

12. When talking about killer whales, Doug says that

- A. he will only film them from a safe distance.
- B. he has always been careful when diving with them.
- C. he tries to avoid any danger by facing them.
- D. he believes there are safe opportunities to film them.

13. What does Doug say about his early career?

- A. He wasted the years he spent as a scientist.
- B. It was a good chance to learn about filming.
- C. He was bored by working only in the Antarctic.
- D. It taught him how to become a skilled diver.

14. How does Doug describe his experience with a polar bear?

- A. The animal was more afraid than Doug was.
- B. Doug felt nervous that the bear might come back.
- C. The bear seemed to know Doug wasn't a danger.

D. Doug realised he was wrong to trust polar bears

15. What might Doug say about his job as a cameraman?

- A. Now I've reached fifty, I realise the dangers involved in getting the best pictures are too great.
- B. I'm glad I gave up working as a scientist because I'm now in a position to be able to retire early.
- C. Although I find the work more difficult now I'm not as young, I still have other film projects I'm keen to do.
- D. I've made wildlife films in every country in the world, but I want to keep filming until I get too old.

QUESTION III

On the next page, you are going to read a magazine article about four people who have left the city to live in the countryside.

For questions 16 - 30, choose from the people (A - D), to say which person......

The people may of course be chosen more than once.

Which person.....

- 16. believes that where they live wouldn't suit everyone?
- 17. decided to resign from a post after less than a year?
- 18. is happier with present travel arrangements?
- 19. mentions spending longer than expected on house maintenance?
- 20. was let down by someone?
- 21. thinks children need entertainment facilities close by?
- 22. wouldn't advise anyone to do what they did?
- 23. was keen to move somewhere healthier?
- 24. has difficulty balancing the family budget?
- 25. took an important decision after a holiday?
- 26. mentions an initial problem some of their family experienced?
- 27. is hoping to move to a new house?
- 28. expected to have difficulty fitting in?
- 29. made a quick decision to move?
- 30. says their view of life in the countryside was not realistic?

In Search of the Good Life

A Andrew Clark

'When I was made manager of a factory in Norfolk, the whole family was delighted. It meant leaving a small house in busy London and getting the chance to buy a large, old house in the countryside. But what I hadn't bargained for was how much time it takes to look after such a big place, which meant missing out on time with the kids. For my wife the main drawback was the lack of things to do in Norfolk. She started missing London mainly because it seemed to have everything to make life easy for a mother shops around the corner, a local doctor, and better schools. So, after two years away we decided to return to the city. Now, when I hear friends say they're considering moving out to the countryside, I think to myself, "You must be mad".'

Michael Ansmith

'We left the city because of the traffic iams and air pollution - and six months on, we're still enjoying the countryside around our new home on top of a hill in the Pennines. I think it was mainly the commuting that got us down. Now it only takes me fifteen minutes to drive to work. In the summer we can go for long walks around here and the children definitely have more fresh air. In the beginning the children missed their friends quite badly, but after six months they seem to have settled well into their new school. And despite our fears that it would take a long time to be accepted by the local people, we now feel part of the village.'

B

Ray Hilton

'We thought the peaceful landscape of the island of Skye would prove an ideal environment for raising children, so when the chance came for me to get a job here, we were delighted. We thought the pace of life would be slower, there would be fewer cars around, and the people would be friendly. Those aspects were fine, but once we started having children we realised there were other problems. It's sixty kilometres to the nearest playground and leisure centre, and a two-anda-half hour journey to the nearest hospital, and it's far, far lonelier than we ever thought -I realise now we were seeing it through rosecoloured spectacles. I took a large pay cut to move to Skye, but promises of an increased salary from the plumbing business that took me on weren't kept. Eight months later, I decided to leave and set up in business on my own, and the result has been two years of non-stop work. Making ends meet is still a struggle, especially where accommodation is concerned - we drew heavily on our savings to move here, and as much as we'd like to, we can't afford to buy a home of our own yet.'

Jackie Redman

'I had a well-paid job in London, a big car and a large house. However, it just wasn't enough. I used to be very motivated by the idea of power, but one day I started to think - does all this money really matter? Then a trip to Scotland changed everything. I went with my daughter, Joanna, to stay in a guest-house in the mountains - I thought it would give me a chance to get the city stress out of my life for a few days. We discovered that the man who ran the place, Tony, was on his own and needed a partner to help him run it. It was so obviously right for Joanna and me. We returned to our old home, rented it out and came straight back to Scotland. We've been here for four years now, I know it's not everyone's cup of tea, as the weather can be awful. Since I've been here I haven't been to a cinema or played tennis or eaten a take-away meal. Nowadays my idea of a good night is watching a film with Tony and Joanna.'
