An oil factory in Angoche district pollutes Inguri community. Oil is made from coconuts. According to the local residents, the lives of people have changed a lot since the opening of this oil factory. The first person interviewed was Maimuna Mucussete, 42, born and raised in Inguri, who said: “when they transform coconuts into oil, the workers make so much noise that we can’t sleep at night.” Another interviewee was Manuel Selemane: “What I don’t like is the smell that comes out of the factory. At 7:30 a.m. the smell makes me vomit” and he continued “When it rains, the water carries litter from the factory into our wells, which provokes many diseases after the rain”, concluded Selemane. Nina, a student from the local school says: “My brother told me that he thinks that people here cough because of the smoke from the factory.” “Pollution should be one of our biggest concern”, says Dr. Nunes Alberto, senior lecturer at the Pedagogic University, a specialist in environmental studies. He talked about pollution and its consequences. According to Dr. Alberto, pollution is the process of making air and water dangerously dirty and not suitable for people to use. For example, air can be polluted by smoke, chemicals, etc., and water can be polluted by poisoning.
